Slippery Elm 45g - UK
63x185mm

Slippery Elm is derived from a native tree in North America. We have selected the finest organic farm that is tended by the native tribes, ensuring that the trees are harvested at their optimum period using ancient traditions. Only the inner bark of the slippery elm tree is used to create this fine cream coloured powder. Once harvested the bark is dried at low temperatures to retain as much of the nutrients as possible and then milled into a fine powder. Organic Slippery Elm powder can be used both internally or externally.
