KIKI's MSM Flakes is a naturally occurring organic mineral sulfur from methylsulfonylmethane. Sulfur, often referred to as 'nature's beauty mineral', is found in all living plants and animal tissue and is a vital component for making collagen, the primary element for hair, skin, joints and cartilage. In generic MSM products, crystallisation is often used as a purification step, which in turn results in higher water content and blockages that can entrap contaminants. KIKI's MSM Flakes are made from premium quality, highly purified methylsulfonylmethane. It undergoes a unique proprietary four-stage distillation process which removes impurities and creates low moisture content, reducing the exposure of microbial contamination and degradation.
